Big Three Challenge Kremlin To Negotiate Peace Accord

BERMUDA (AP)—The Big Three challenged the Kremlin today to negotiate peace settlements in Europe and Asia and to "solve the stubborn problems" of a world too long in conflict.

In a final Bermuda communique that occasionally rang with Churchillian prose, but omitted any concrete solutions for the key problems of Western unity, U. S. President Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Churchill and French Premier Laniel announced:

1. They are sending notes to Russia for an early Big Four foreign ministers meeting in Berlin which they hope will make progress towards the unification of Germany and independence for Austria.

2. They will continue to strive for a Korean political conference which they hope will lead to both a Korean settlement with the Asian Communists and "progress in restoring more normal conditions in the Far East and Southeast Asia."

3. They will continue to struggle for "peace and stability" in Indochina, where the "valiant forces" of France and the native states are making an important contribution to the "defense of the free world."

4. They hope for a "peaceful" liberation of the Red-ruled East European countries and reject as unjustified "the present division of Europe."

5. They will "lose no opportunity for easing the tensions that beset the world and for reassuring all nations that they have no cause to fear that the strength of the West will be invoked in any cause of wrongful violence."

The communique sounded a high note of Western unity and common purpose, providing a background for Eisenhower's appearance at the United Nations today for his address on the "Perils of the World in This Atomic Age."

The announcement of his speech was one of two known specific results of the conference.

es here since Friday. The other was the dispatch of the note to Russia proposing that the Big Four ministers meet in Berlin Jan. 4. There possibly were other concrete achievements, to be disclosed later.

Two issues which figured heavily in pre-conference speculation—the projected European Defense Community and Churchill's presumed intention to urge a top-level meeting with Russia's Prime Minister Malenkov—were left unclarified by the conference communique, although the EDC was mentioned.

Eisenhower and Churchill came here determined to put all possible pressure on Laniel for early ratification of the EDC Treaty setting up a European army including German troops. The pressure, which fell on Bidault when Laniel sickened, obviously failed.

The French were only able to explain the reasons behind their fears of a German arms revival. These fears have stalled French ratification of the pact to date.

Reds Scorn 'Final Offer' On Peace Talk

U.S. Envoy Labels Communists' Reply As Only 'Garbage'

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Allies today laid on the line a "final offer" for a Korean peace conference but the Communists rejected it outright in a scornful blast which the chief U. S. delegate termed "garbage."

The Red action made academic a potential Allied problem—South Korea's refusal to accept part of the U. S. proposal.

South Korea's delegate refused to attend the meeting as U. S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean delivered the new plan.

Dean's offer nailed down loose ends of previous Allied proposals and suggestions.

"I told them (the Reds) this was it and we would stand on it," Dean told newsmen. "This is our final offer."

Terms of the new proposal: 1. Russia could sit in without being labeled a belligerent on either side or a neutral, but would insist they vote with the Communist side.

2. "Some or all" of the non-belligerent countries who have "current" experience in Korea could attend as "neutrals" without voting rights. They could talk on subjects under debate but could not bring up subjects. These could include India, Sweden, Switzerland, Pakistan and Chile and Communist satellites Poland and Czechoslovakia.

3. The meeting would open at Geneva within 28 to 42 days after the present sessions end. Dean has indicated he might accept another site, but not Panmunjom.

4. Sessions would be open to the press except on agreement by both sides.

The Communists, reading from a 16-page prepared statement, termed Dean's offering "absurd and ridiculous."

Highway Council Continuing Tour Of Southwestern Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state highway construction council yesterday viewed 15 road projects recommended for next year and likely others suggested for later on.

Chairman Clingan Jackson told of the visit to southwestern Ohio today as he returned to Columbus to make a speech. The other council members, Wilbur M. Cotton and Jesse E. Van Fossen, today are touring the area east of Cincinnati.

Yesterday's tour took the council to Springfield, Xenia, and Cincinnati, where members studied projects.

Jackson said they looked over proposals for about 100 million dollars in projects in Cincinnati itself designed to be built over a period of years with a combination of city, state and federal funds. Commenting on Cincinnati's traffic problem, Jackson said:

"The planning in Cincinnati very obviously represents years of constructive effort to map a program to meet the traffic problem of that city. It looks like very good planning. Cincinnati has a very pressing problem because of the huge amount of traffic that has to go through that area."

The council also studied five projects in the Springfield area which would cost about 2 1/2 million dollars. Projects involving U. S. 40 would eliminate railroad crossing traffic on that route through Springfield and speed traffic through the city quicker.

"It looked like a proper solution to me of the Springfield U. S. 40 problem," Jackson said. But he hastened to add that statement did

Cops Say 4 Unionists Admit Roles In Property Bombings

COLUMBUS (AP)—Columbus police say they have solved the series of bombings of property belonging to non-striking North American Aviation, Inc., employees.

Eight members of CIO-United Auto Workers Local 927 are being held. Four confessed a hand in the explosions, officers said last night.

Capt. George W. Scholer, chief of detectives, said the suspects "just wanted to scare the non-strikers so they wouldn't go back to work."

No charges have been filed. But police say they've solved four of five blasts touched off Nov. 30 and Dec. 1 and solution of the fifth is claimed to be near.

The eight men were listed on the police records as:

Keith Weed, 31; Raymond W. Hoskinson, 36; Bernard E. Angus, 45; Robert White, 27; Charles E. Moore, 30; Paul James Richey, 29, all of Columbus; Daniel Leslie Mason, 31, and Henry Woltz, 23, both of Lancaster.

Scholer said the investigation showed no evidence the union sanctioned the bombings.

The blasts damaging non-strikers' cars and property was the work of a gang, Scholer said. All suspects are married and

U.N. To Hear Peace Appeal From U.S. Chief

President Expected To Aim His Plea Directly At Russia

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—U. N. delegates from both sides of the Iron Curtain waited expectantly today for President Eisenhower's appeal to the General Assembly for peace.

One high diplomatic source said the address would be a "sensational" aimed at breaking the seven-year-old East-West deadlock over atomic energy control.

Most delegates speculated the U. S. President would aim his plea directly at Russia. Most voiced hope that the address, coming as the Assembly prepared to recess its eighth session, would pave the way for high-level big power talks designed to ease world tensions.

In London, Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express claimed that Prime Minister Churchill tried "with all the eloquence at his command" to talk Eisenhower out of making his speech to the U. N.

AND WHEN Churchill saw his protests were in vain, the Express said in a dispatch from Bermuda, he set about using his influence to tone down the wording as far as possible.

The independent, pro-empire paper said Churchill was "greatly upset" when shown the first draft of Eisenhower's speech.

"He took the line that as first drafted it would profoundly shock the world," the paper said.

"He pointed out that since the NATO forces in Europe are being equipped with atomic artillery and other atomic weapons, the bluntness of the speech might be construed as a threat."

In Churchill's view, said the Express, the shock of Eisenhower's speech would have a "bad and depressing effect on world opinion."

Eisenhower worked until after midnight in Bermuda with Britain's Prime Minister Churchill and France's Foreign Minister Georges Bidault winding up the secret talks they hope will advance a big step towards peace.

The U. S. President, in his spare time, worked on his U. N. address.

It's Possible Reds Still Hold Yankee POWs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some Pentagon officials think it is quite possible that some Americans captured in Korea are alive and being forced to work for the Communists behind the Iron Curtain.

Periodically during the Korean War American intelligence agencies heard such reports and made every effort to track them down.

Defense Department officials say they cannot declare flatly that the Chinese and Korean Reds failed to return or account for all Americans they captured, because the Communists never made complete reports on prisoners and refused to permit investigations.

But one official, after reading the statement of a returned Japanese prisoner of World War II that he had seen Americans in a prison near Moscow, said:

"It is quite possible that some American boys are digging uranium in Siberian mines—if we could only prove it."

This source recalled that the Russians are still holding German and Japanese military prisoners they captured in World War II.

The Defense Department now lists about 7,500 American servicemen as missing in Korea. About most of these men, the Pentagon says frankly that it has no information whatsoever. But the Army has said about 600 were once believed to have been captured.

Old Burial Spot Found By Builders

NORWALK (AP)—A turnpike bulldozer has turned up an old burial ground near here, presumably dating from Indian days.

Curator Raymond S. Baby, of the Ohio State Archeological and Historical Society's Museum in Columbus, has taken charge of three skeletons, some shell beads, a clay pipe and a small skinning knife found on top of a hill. Officials estimated six other skeletons had been carried off by workmen.

Hearing Opens On Annexation; No Decision Expected Tuesday

Public hearing on the city's plan to annex a large area north of the corporation began in Pickaway County courthouse Tuesday before the three-member county commission.

Chairman Bob Adkins of the City Planning and Zoning Commission opened the discussion with a review of how the annexation plan came about. Only about 30 persons were in the courtroom when he started to speak.

Several spokesmen for both sides of the proposal were included in the group of interested persons on hand when the hearing began shortly after 1:30 p. m. in common pleas courtroom. Early developments at the session gave no definite indication as to how long the hearing would last.

Pickaway County Prosecutor William Ammer serves as legal adviser to the county commission. Attorney Kenneth Robbins of Circleville has been serving in the same capacity for the city planning and zoning commission, spearhead group for the city's annexation move.

Both were present at opening of the hearing in which the county commissioners seek public sentiment before they rule on the first big step of Circleville's long-range expansion program. Approval of the county commission is essential if the city's plan is to move forward without further delay.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS late Monday again declined to indicate what their individual views would be toward the proposal to extend the corporate limits nearly a mile further north. Commission Chairman Bill Goode said he was aware of sentiment for and against the plan, but did not say which side he favors. Commissioner Lyman Penn had no comment to make in advance of the hearing. Harley Mace of New Holland is the commission's third member.

Goode said it may "take three or four days at least" before "a y-thing definite is decided," referring presumably to the decision by the commissioners. The hearing itself, he pointed out, may be adjourned until Wednesday or later if all the business can't be handled at the first session.

Widely viewed as one of the greatest opportunities ever placed before the community, the annexation plan has the signed support of nearly 80 per cent of the property owners in the area charted for annexation. The move represents the city's first major effort to carry out its end of an agreement with the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway, if Circleville can provide room for adequate housing, the rail concern promises to bring new industries here.

Segregation Debate Resumes Before U.S. Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorneys argue before the Supreme Court again today whether the 14th Amendment, adopted after the Civil War, gives that court the power now to order children educated together in public schools, regardless of race.

One round of pro and con debate on public school segregation was heard yesterday. The clashing arguments wind up tomorrow but the court's decision may be months off.

Legal questions for the court to decide are: Does the "separate but equal" doctrine it laid down in an 1896 transportation case still apply? Has the court the power to order states to integrate their segregated school systems? Did the 14th Amendment contemplate outlawing segregation?

Negro attorneys, opening the arguments yesterday, asked the high court to outlaw segregation, contending the "separate but equal" doctrine cannot apply.

WHITE-HAIRED John W. Davis, speaking for South Carolina and Virginia, replied that the doctrine has been approved in the courts and the legislatures for so many years that it should be regarded as no longer open to debate.

Aviation Probe Left To Panel

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) said today he will let the Senate Commerce Committee decide in January whether a proposed broad investigation of commercial aviation should go ahead.

Bricker, the committee chairman, said it was immaterial to him whether the probe is made or dropped. The investigation originally was planned by the late Sen. Charles W. Tobey (R-NH), Bricker's predecessor as chairman.

De'il Tak' Me If E'r Heard Likes O' This

GLASGOW (AP)—An Englishman brought Scotland to the verge of a bloodless civil war today.

He has translated Bobby Burns' poems into American-style English with none of the "wha's and 'hae's" which make the Scots bard tricky reading.

The culprit is William Kean Seymour, 66-year-old retired bank manager, who has never been to Scotland.

He says he thinks the poems read better this way.

Seymour's improvements have set off a storm of controversy in Scotland's newspapers. So far, the battle is roughly even, with half the Scots again him, and the other half supporting him.

A typical Seymour line comes from his translation of Burns' famous poem "Address to a Haggis": traditional greeting to the weird Scots dish at annual "Burns Night" suppers. Burns wrote:

"Fair fa' your honest sonsie face, great chieftain o' the pudding' race."

In Seymour style, it reads: "Good luck to your plump honest face, etc."

State Awaits GOP Moves In Political Race

COLUMBUS (AP)—The next move is up to the Republicans.

This was the feeling among Ohio political observers here today after announcements by Gov. Frank J. Lausche and Sen. Thomas A. Burke yesterday erased the two big question marks from the Democratic side of the picture.

Lausche announced he would run for a fifth term as Ohio governor. Burke followed with his announcement for the unexpired term of the late Robert A. Taft in the U. S. Senate.

The announcements are expected to bring from Republicans their decision on candidates for these and other offices. Party leaders have said they were undecided on a ticket because of uncertainty over what action Lausche and Burke would take.

The candidacies of both Lausche and Burke are subject to nomination in the May primary. Lausche, because of his strong vote-getting record, is not expected to have opposition. But politicians are speculating that Burke, although strong in Cleveland, might have primary opposition.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer said today the most probable Republican battery to oppose Gov. Lausche and Sen. Burke in their bids to retain those offices appear to be Congressman George H. Bender, running for the Senate, and State Auditor James A. Rhodes, for governor.

Accord Reached

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—The AFL International Assn. of Machinists and Lockheed Aircraft Corp. have reached an agreement on wages for 27,000 employees of the company in its four California plants, but details of the agreement were withheld.

Still awaiting argument are segregation cases involving the District of Columbia, Delaware and Kansas.

There are 17 states with compulsory public school segregation and three which permit it. All of them would be affected by a decision against segregation.

Moore said 10 1/2 million of the 15 million Negroes in the United States live in areas where compulsory segregation is the rule.

Jackson said they looked over proposals for about 100 million dollars in projects in Cincinnati itself designed to be built over a period of years with a combination of city, state and federal funds. Commenting on Cincinnati's traffic problem, Jackson said:

"The planning in Cincinnati very obviously represents years of constructive effort to map a program to meet the traffic problem of that city. It looks like very good planning. Cincinnati has a very pressing problem because of the huge amount of traffic that has to go through that area."

The council also studied five projects in the Springfield area which would cost about 2 1/2 million dollars. Projects involving U. S. 40 would eliminate railroad crossing traffic on that route through Springfield and speed traffic through the city quicker.

"It looked like a proper solution to me of the Springfield U. S. 40 problem," Jackson said. But he hastened to add that statement did

11 Lodge Dresses Taken By Thief

CLEVELAND (AP)—Eleven Eastern Star formal dresses were stolen from an Akron woman's parked car here yesterday.

The formal dresses, specially made for an officers' installation next week at a cost of $336, were filched from the automobile owned by Mrs. Hobart Brown of Akron.

Cops Say 4 Unionists Admit Roles In Property Bombings

COLUMBUS (AP)—Columbus police say they have solved the series of bombings of property belonging to non-striking North American Aviation, Inc., employees.

Eight members of CIO-United Auto Workers Local 927 are being held. Four confessed a hand in the explosions, officers said last night.

Capt. George W. Scholer, chief of detectives, said the suspects "just wanted to scare the non-strikers so they wouldn't go back to work."

No charges have been filed. But police say they've solved four of five blasts touched off Nov. 30 and Dec. 1 and solution of the fifth is claimed to be near.

The eight men were listed on the police records as: Keith Weed, 31; Raymond W. Hoskinson, 36; Bernard E. Angus, 45; Robert White, 27; Charles E. Moore, 30; Paul James Richey, 29, all of Columbus; Daniel Leslie Mason, 31, and Henry Woltz, 23, both of Lancaster.

Scholer said the investigation showed no evidence the union sanctioned the bombings.

The blasts damaging non-strikers' cars and property was the work of a gang, Scholer said.

All suspects are married and have families, according to police. Each faces a one to seven year prison term if convicted on charges of malicious destruction of property valued at more than $100.

Sheppard Held For Jury In Dump Shooting

A 32-year old Circleville construction firm employee pleaded guilty Tuesday to shooting with intent to kill and was bound to Pickaway County grand jury.

Roy Sheppard, held in connection with the shooting of Robert Redman, 42, appeared in the court of Mayor Ed Amey. He had already told police that he shot twice at Redman while the two were at the old Neuding dumping grounds last Friday. The shotgun blasts caught Redman in the side and back.

Amey said Sheppard, who has been held in city jail in the basement of city hall since the shooting, asked "a hearing as soon as possible." He was committed to the county jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Redman, a trash hauler, was reported "improving" at Berger Hospital. His condition Monday was listed "fair."

Pig's Ear Kills

It's Possible Reds Still Hold Yankee POWs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some Pentagon officials think it is quite possible that some Americans captured in Korea are alive and being forced to work for the Communists behind the Iron Curtain.

Periodically during the Korean War American intelligence agencies heard such reports and made every effort to track them down.

Defense Department officials say they cannot declare flatly that the Chinese and Korean Reds failed to return or account for all Americans they captured, because the Communists never made complete reports on prisoners and refused to permit investigations.

But one official, after reading the statement of a returned Japanese prisoner of World War II that he had seen Americans in a prison near Moscow, said:

"It is quite possible that some American boys are digging uranium in Siberian mines—if we could only prove it."

This source recalled that the Russians are still holding German and Japanese military prisoners they captured in World War II.

The Defense Department now lists about 7,500 American servicemen as missing in Korea. About most of these men, the Pentagon says frankly that it has no information whatsoever. But the Army has said about 600 were once believed to have been captured.

Old Burial Spot Found By Builders

NORWALK (AP)—A turnpike bulldozer has turned up an old burial ground near here, presumably dating from Indian days.

Curator Raymond S. Baby, of the Ohio State Archeological and Historical Society's Museum in Columbus, has taken charge of three skeletons, some shell beads, a clay pipe and a small skinning knife found on top of a hill. Officials estimated six other skeletons had been carried off by workmen.

They made the interview score far 190 to 0 in favor of communism.

was readied in advance for a packed audience of diplomats and tourists.

Eisenhower's U. N. visit was planned to last only about an hour and a half.

Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld, who invited Eisenhower to make the address, arranged a short reception after the talk. A half hour later the presidential party was slated to whisk back to La Guardia and on to Washington.

The major U. S. radio and television networks were to carry the speech and the Voice of America planned to beam it throughout the world.

Television films of the President's appearance will be flown to 15 countries in Western Europe, Latin America, and the Far East.

The Assembly has urged its Disarmament Commission to make another stab at solving the arms issue and called for big power talks to break the East-West deadlock. It was expected to suggest a fresh approach to the problem of international atomic energy control.

Observers speculated it might spell an end to the Baruch plan, proposed to the U. N. seven years ago by Eisenhower's old friend, Bernard Baruch. This plan called for control—by stages—of atomic energy production throughout the world leading eventually to international ownership of all atom plants.

IN THEIR disarmament resolution last month the Western Big Three dropped any mention of the Baruch plan, which the Russians have denounced as a plot by Western imperialists to grab Soviet plants.

Western delegates have felt for some time that the Baruch plan went out of date with the birth of the hydrogen bomb.

It had been hoped to wind up the Assembly session tonight. In view of the Eisenhower speech, adjournment probably will not come until tomorrow.

The Assembly's top Political Committee wound up its business last night with overwhelming approval of a compromise proposal to postpone debate indefinitely on the Korean question. The vote was 55-0 with the five-nation Soviet bloc abstaining.

The United States and other backers of the proposal said it was designed to avoid a discussion which might torpedo delicate Panmunjom negotiations for a Korean peace parity.

2 City Youths Injured When Car Overtakes

Two Circleville youths were back home Tuesday after escaping critical injuries in an automobile accident.

Jack Moats, 18, of 125 Logan St., and Carl Hawks, 17, of 550 Spring-hollow Rd., were both injured when the car in which they were riding skidded and overturned late Sunday night in the Lancaster area. However, physicians said Tuesday that Hawks apparently was not as badly hurt as first believed. And Moats had already returned to Circleville.

Brought here from Lancaster Hospital where he was taken after the accident, Hawks was ordered to remain in bed at his home for at least a week. He suffered lacerations, and at first it was believed his skull was fractured. Moats had a broken bone in one foot and abrasions and cuts.

Moats was driving the car a short distance north of Lancaster on Route 37 at the time of the crash. The youths were returning from Thurston.

The machine failed to take a curve and overturned on its right side after skidding 150 feet. Plunging into a ditch, the car was flipped over on its left side and skidded an additional 105 feet before crashing into a tree. The car was demolished.

Senator Sees About-Face In Defense Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kilgore (D-W. Va.) today labeled as "a change in front" an announcement by Secretary Wilson that the Defense Department will ask Congress for funds to build toward a 127-wing Air Force by mid-1956.

Wilson's statement that "including naval aviation, we now have the most powerful and effective Air Force in the world" was hailed by Senators Potter (R-Mich.) and Welker (R-Idaho) as an answer to critics of Eisenhower administration cuts in Air Force funds.

"We now have an Air Force with planes in the air instead of on the drafting boards," Potter declared.

Welker said he believes "the President and the secretary of defense have shown what can be accomplished by sound planning and effective organization work."

Declaring that "we must continue to have air power second to none," Wilson said in an Indianapolis speech last night the Air Force will have 115 wings by next June 30 and can reach an interim goal of 120 wings sooner than expected. A wing ranges in size from 30 bombers to 75 fighters.

Kilgore said the proposed request for funds to build toward 127 wings seemed to him an almost complete about-face. Earlier this year, the administration abandoned at least temporarily the 143-wing goal which had been set under the Truman administration and slashed Air Force fund requests by $5 billion.

was readied in advance for a packed audience of diplomats and tourists.

Eisenhower's U. N. visit was planned to last only about an hour and a half.

Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, who invited Eisenhower to make the address, arranged a short reception after the talk. A half hour later the presidential party was slated to whisk back to La Guardia and on to Washington.

The major U. S. radio and television networks were to carry the speech and the Voice of America planned to beam it throughout the world.

Television films of the President's appearance will be flown to 15 countries in Western Europe, Latin America and the Far East.

The Assembly has urged its Disarmament Commission to make another stab at solving the arms issue and called for big power talks to break the East-West deadlock. It was expected to suggest a fresh approach to the problem of international atomic energy control.

Observers speculated it might spell an end to the Baruch plan, proposed to the U. N. seven years ago by Eisenhower's old friend, Bernard Baruch. This plan called for control—by stages—of atomic energy production throughout the world leading eventually to international ownership of all atom plants.

IN THEIR disarmament resolution last month the Western Big Three dropped any mention of the Baruch plan, which the Russians have denounced as a plot by Western imperialists to grab Soviet plants.

Western delegates have felt for some time that the Baruch plan went out of date with the birth of the hydrogen bomb.

It had been hoped to wind up the Assembly session tonight. In view of the Eisenhower speech, adjournment probably will not come until tomorrow.

The Assembly's top Political Committee wound up its business last night with overwhelming approval of a compromise proposal to postpone debate indefinitely on the Korean question. The vote was 55-0 with the five-nation Soviet bloc abstaining.

The United States and other backers of the proposal said it was designed to avoid a discussion which might torpedo delicate Panmunjom negotiations for a Korean peace parley.

The four motorists paid fines totaling $125. The cases were as follows:

EUGENE BUNNER, 26, of Cleveland; reckless operation on Route 23 north of the city; arrested Monday night by State Patrolman Miller; fined $50 and costs.

Jennings Adkins, 29, of West Virginia; failure to file registration; arrested on Route 23 north of the city Monday night by State Patrolman Miller; fined $15 and costs.

In addition to the traffic cases, Charles Arledge, 34, of Circleville, was fined $25 and costs on accusation of assault and battery. Affidavit was signed by Florence Davis.

Motorist Penalized

Alex Palmer, 27, of West Portsmouth, was fined $25 and costs in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root Monday for driving without an operator's license. He was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Carl Radcliff and Dwight Radcliff, son of Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff.

2 City Youths Injured When Car Overturns

Two Circleville youths were back home Tuesday after escaping critical injuries in an automobile accident.

Jack Moats, 18, of 125 Logan St., and Carl Hawks, 17, of 550 Spring-hollow Rd., were both injured when the car in which they were riding skidded and overturned late Sunday night in the Lancaster area. However, physicians said Tuesday that Hawks apparently was not as badly hurt as first believed. And Moats had already returned to Circleville.

Brought here from Lancaster Hospital where he was taken after the accident, Hawks was ordered to remain in bed at his home for at least a week. He suffered lacerations, and at first it was believed his skull was fractured. Moats had a broken bone in one foot and abrasions and cuts.

Moats was driving the car a short distance north of Lancaster on Route 37 at the time of the crash. The youths were returning from Thurston.

The machine failed to take a curve and overturned on its right side after skidding 150 feet. Plunging into a ditch, the car was flipped over on its left side and skidded an additional 105 feet before crashing into a tree. The car was demolished.

Others elected at the group's convention here yesterday included: First vice president, Jennings B. Cole, South Webster; second vice president, Miss Esther Pinsky, Bel-laire; Secretary, Mrs. Phoebe Welsh, Steubenville, and treasurer, Mrs. Elsa Stillwagon, Mount Vernon.

Senator Sees About-Face In Defense Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kilgore (D-W. Va.) today labeled as "a change in front" an announcement by Secretary Wilson that the Defense Department will ask Congress for funds to build toward a 127-wing Air Force by mid-1956.

Wilson's statement that "including naval aviation, we now have the most powerful and effective Air Force in the world" was hailed by Senators Potter (R-Mich.) and Welker (R-Idaho) as an answer to critics of Eisenhower administration cuts in Air Force funds.

"We now have an Air Force with planes in the air instead of on the drafting boards," Potter declared.

Welker said he believes "the President and the secretary of defense have shown what can be accomplished by sound planning and effective organization work."

Declaring that "we must continue to have air power second to none," Wilson said in an Indianapolis speech last night the Air Force will have 115 wings by next June 30 and can reach an interim goal of 120 wings sooner than expected. A wing ranges in size from 30 bombers to 75 fighters.

Kilgore said the proposed request for funds to build toward 127 wings seemed to him an almost complete about-face. Earlier this year, the administration abandoned at least temporarily the 143-wing goal which had been set under the Truman administration and slashed Air Force fund requests by $5 billion.

Health Merger Points Explained; Proposed Budget Totals $26,846

To aid public understanding of points involved in the proposal to merge health departments of the city of Circleville and Pickaway County, The Herald Monday published an article based on information supplied by a spokesman for the Ohio State Health Department. A second article on the same subject follows:

Answering six questions on what a unified health department would mean for this district, E. A. Graber of the Ohio State Health Department's Bureau of Local Services estimated total cost of such unification at $26,846 annually. He described briefly requirements that would have to be met and some of the benefits which would flow from a merged organization.

Graber addressed the Pickaway Community Health Council here at its November meeting. The six questions were relayed to him since that time by The Herald and he replied:

"(1) The state's requirements of a local health department, in order that it may be eligible for such ancillary services as are provided by the Ohio Department of Health, are that the local department employ at least the basic personnel on a full time basis and that this personnel be prepared to offer to the community at least the six basic public health services.

"The basic personnel would be a physician health commissioner, a sanitarian, at least one nurse and at least one clerk, all of whom are devoting their full time to public health. The six basic services would be a Communicable Disease Service, an Environmental Sanitation Service, a Health Education Service, Laboratory Service, a Maternal and Child Health Service, and a Vital Statistics Service.

"(2) YOUR SECOND question deals with the number of people needed to meet the requirements of your area. In order to properly accomplish the public health work needed in the Circleville-Pickaway County area, there should be at least one physician, one sanitarian, two nurses and a clerk.

"According to the American Public Health Association standards which are used throughout the United States, the department to serve your city and county should have at least one physician, two sanitarians, three nurses and one clerk.

"(3) Your third question has to do with the cost of such a department. The cost of the minimum staff with the various incidental expense necessary to maintain the staff, would be $26,846.

"(4) Your fourth question deals with the distribution of cost between city and county. You may recall that in my discussion, I suggested two possible approaches to the distribution of cost between the city and the county.

"One was based upon the assessed valuation of the city and of the county and under this circumstance the cost to the city would be $4,956 and the cost to the county would be $21,890. The second approach which may be used would be to break down the costs on the basis of population. Using this system of reckoning costs, the county would supply $18,824, the city $8,022.

"In connection with the assessed valuation or taxable valuation figure which I used Friday night in my discussion, I had received this figure in 1951 from the Secretary of State's office.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower returns here, from the Bermuda conference and his talk on the atom at the United Nations in New York today, to prepare for one of the most important years of his life.

By that time Eisenhower may have had so much success in foreign affairs that the voters will give the Republicans enthusiastic endorsement, in spite of any lapses in domestic matters.

But, judging from the stubborn attitude of the Russians, it seems unlikely Eisenhower can pull very many rabbits, if any, out of his foreign hat.

publicans have done at home, or left undone.

The two biggest immediate tasks facing Eisenhower when he gets back here will be finishing work on the budget and preparing his State of the Union message, both of which must be presented to Congress in January.

Some of the budget, perhaps most of it, is already completed. But the President and his advisers still must consider the most far-reaching item in it: how much money for national defense?

A great many things depend on the size of the total budget, which is the money the administration thinks it should spend in the fiscal year beginning next July 1: taxes, for instance, and whether the Republicans will be able to keep their promise to balance the budget.

It's in the State of the Union message that Eisenhower will ask Congress for help and approval in carrying out the program which, he has said several times, will be the main issue in the 1954 elections.

Eisenhower has promised to cut government spending and, to the extent Congress goes along, he may be able to do that.

He has also promised a new farm program next year. And he has talked of wanting social security widened to cover more people.

He has a problem of foreign trade—whether tariffs should stay as they are, go higher, or go lower—which is tied in most delicately with this country's relations with its allies.

On all those points, except an attempt to cut spending, he may fits well beyond those presently received.

"(6) Since I have not had the opportunity of talking with certain officials such as the county auditor or city auditor as to the availability of funds, I am unable to answer the question as to whether the city and county could finance the proposed budget.

"The need for a public health levy could be determined by talking with these same officials after knowing the public health personnel needs of the city and county and the amounts of local appropriations that could be made to meet these needs. It must be understood that a public health levy is resorted to only as a supplement to the funds that can be made available from the normal sources of support of the health department."

In offering a proposed budget for any unified health department here, Graber said:

"I must emphasize that this budget has been made with the intent of meeting the minimum needs of the city and county. It is quite possible that there would be good reason to expand the personnel by one sanitarian and by one more nurse."

THE PROPOSED budget follows:

Salaries — Health commissioner, $8,500; sanitarian No. 1, $3,900; two nurses at $3,168 each, $6,336; clerk No. 1, $2,100. Total salaries, $20,836.

CHANGING EMPIRE

IT IS A CHANGED AND a changing empire that Britain's Queen is setting out to survey during the next six months, and she will see the processes of change operating in some of the segments she visits. Now called Commonwealth, the British Empire still sprawls around the globe and on it the sun still never sets. But the major parts of it are held together now by looser ties that center in the Crown and the symbolic person of the fair, young Queen.

The visits of Elizabeth II and the ceremonial that will surround them may help to strengthen anew some of the ties that have been subjected to severe strain by world developments. They may have the effect in some instances of modifying the process of change.

Differences in the relationship between the United Kingdom, as Great Britain is now officially known, and the former dominions, are illustrated in the fact that when Elizabeth succeeded her father to the throne, it was necessary to devise seven different titles to fit her relationship to them.

This tour substitutes for the one Elizabeth began while still Crown Princess. That was interrupted in Kenya colony by her father's death, and she had to rush home to assume her new responsibilities. Before that she had made a separate visit to Canada, with a side trip to Washington, and hence will come no closer to North America this time than to Bermuda.

But when she completes this trip to several Commonwealth members and to some of her "other realms and territories," Queen Elizabeth will have been personally seen by a wider representation of the 600 million persons who owe allegiance to her than any other British monarch except perhaps her grandfather, George V, and her uncle, Edward VIII, now the Duke of Windsor.

LOOK WHO'S BATTY

DOCTOR ROY R. GRINKER, a Chicago psychiatrist, has stated that anyone wishing for a return to normalcy, or a life with fewer ups and downs, is alive with the very "essence of neurosis."

Possibly he considers those who hope someday to work themselves into the position whereby they can forego some of life's hardships as escapist. If this be the reasoning of this learned gentleman, it follows, then, that he regards the vast majority of the human race as batty.

Whatever the merits of Dr. Grinker's arguments, if any, it certainly appears that this would be a healthy neurosis to which to succumb.

Many people are beginning to wonder when freedom from fear is going to begin.

news behind the news

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court has recently ratified in practical and violent manner the Truman-Clark revival of the theory that the three branches of the government are separate, independent and sometimes noncooperative bodies. It has rebuked and repudiated the White House and Congress in the contest between Washington and the states for control of vast natural resources.

The decision was handed down in the famous and extremely important natural gas case. Climaxing years of legislative and political debate, the court held that the Federal Power Commission does enjoy regulatory authority over independent producers' gathering and marketing of this fuel, which has become a widely used source of heat and energy.

It virtually declared that this growing industry is a public utility, and subject to federal jurisdiction over production, transportation, distribution, rates, profits and investments. Despite its technical nature, it is one of the most far-reaching decisions in this field in many years, especially if it is applied

George E. Sokolsky's These Days

It must be asked whether a labor contract is a contract at all. If a union and an employer come to terms, prepare a contract which represents a meeting of the minds, and that contract provides for a period, say one, two or three years, may that contract be violated because another union establishes a picket line around the premises?

This, it would seem, is a fundamental in labor relations. John L. Lewis, for instance, has always taken the position that the miners will not work unless a contract exists between the United Mine Workers and the employers. Most unions now adopt the same position.

But the unions maintain that a picket line is inviolable. Thus, in an enterprise involving, let us say, 10 unions, if one union strikes and establishes a picket line, the other nine unions refuse to work but without formally calling a strike.

If the one union's contract has terminated, but the other nine have contracts still to run, this device may be used by the other nine unions to strike without violating their contracts. They could even say that they want to go to work, that they do not approve of the strike, but that they cannot cross a picket line by the traditions of trade unionism. Thus, they actually join the strike.

Of what value then is any contract with any labor union?

If a self-imposed picket line can be used as a justification for the violation of a contract, the contract is violable at the moment of signing and therefore is nullified from the moment of signature. The labor contract is then meaningless, useless, and can have no place in collective bargaining.

In the instance of the newspaper strike in New York, a small union of highly paid workers was called out on strike over wage and fringe benefits. The real motive of the strike was an internal struggle for power within the union. No other union went on strike because that would have been a violation of their contracts.

Nevertheless, all the workers refused to enter the premises of their employment because they would not cross a picket line. Therefore, all the daily newspapers were closed down ostensibly because the photoengravers, without whom any newspaper can exist, struck. Thousands were put out of work.

If all the unions agreed in advance upon such a procedure, it could be a conspiracy to violate existing contracts and to damage property. It would be an illegal strike. Such pre-arrangement may or may not be demonstrable; the likelihood is that no one will attempt to get at that fact, because business is chary of additional headaches and public officials escape unpleasant tasks.

Actually, under the Taft-Hartley Act, the cooperating unions could be sued for damages, but their defense would undoubtedly be that they never struck at all, but were prohibited from fulfilling their contractual obligations by the picket line.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

CHARLOTTE wanted to throw the paperweight at Cummings. She wanted to beat him with small, hard fists. She was a balloon blown to bursting with hate of him.

"Of course," King tempted, "a promotion to advertising manager would automatically exempt you from suspicion. I'd see to that."

She looked at him incredulously. Maggot in his mind, she thought. But the taste of triumph was sweet in her mouth.

"Who killed Osa Field?" she asked softly.

She watched his bland, well-disciplined face. Was there just a flicker of fear?

"So you did read Velora's piece of prose," he said. "I'm surprised that your mind is so glib. And I'm sorry to find you so bitter. I know it's your nature, but I had hoped..." Suddenly he seemed to switch tactics. "Oh, Charlotte, Charlotte, I miss you, I want you, I've got to have you back."

"Doesn't it get stuffy behind your mask?" she was going to say, but she waited.

"Look here," he said, "couldn't we talk this over in a more agreeable atmosphere? Say the Mont D'Or, dinner at eight?"

And then the idea danced before her. She gave him her most innocent-eyed look. "Why not?" she said slowly. "The Mont D'Or at eight." She dropped her lashes.

She stood and walked back to the office. She was so tired, she could hardly make her legs go. Left, right, left, right, she told them, like a drillmaster. Yet somehow she had to last till this evening. And then? It all depended; things always depended.

Once the notion crossed her confused mind that perhaps none of this was real. Maybe she was psychotic. Maybe she had delusions of persecution. Maybe she'd just been offered a good job and didn't know enough to take it. Maybe King even loved her—in his obscure way.

She almost laughed out loud. That made her see straight again. Lo, the lengths to which the ego can carry us! Secretly thinking I'm so attractive King might love me; so capable he might really want me for the job. I thought I was a realist.

A little after lunch her mother called. "Charlotte, I've had you on my mind ever since this morning, I can't help it." She talked fast and apologetically. "I just had to call to beg you to be careful, I have a sort of premonition."

"Of what?"

"I can't say, just this sense of something..." Her voice trailed off.

"A mother's intuition?" Charlotte asked. "Not that! Listen, after tonight you may not need to worry any more." Charlotte spoke with her hand cupped around the mouthpiece.

"What do you mean?"

"Just that things have come to a sort of point of no return, and I think there's a bull I can get by the horns at last."

"I wish you wouldn't talk in riddles. Just tell me in simple English."

"I can't very well."

"At least be careful about talking bulls by the horns. Where will it be?"

"Right here, if all goes well."

"Oh, Charlotte."

"I'll tell you what, I'll meet you at Barney's, you know, just around the corner, shortly before or after eight. Good-by, now."

"Charlotte, wait!"

The phone clicked in its cradle as Charlotte hung up.

Her gaze traveled around the office. She was suddenly sure this would be her last day here.

"This is a business office," Tim had quoted King. Business! That's where King had miscalculated. He thought Charlotte still had business ambitions. He didn't know how long they'd been dead.

Business! The young girls came in here applying for jobs. They had morning in their faces, and they said, "I want to be a copywriter." Being a copywriter, she wanted to tell them, was pretty much a matter of prying open pocketbooks, as though they were so many oysters. And of keeping your mind as dull as that of the public, so they'd understand you. Serve Mammom, serve the public, learn to be coy on the typewriter, and you'll succeed. And oh, yes, above all you must think you're smart. Never for a minute doubt it.

It had been a long time since Charlotte had thought she was smart. The young things were welcome to her job.

But what then would I like to be?... Back home, the child Charlotte had dreamed of the things she'd be when she grew up. She'd be a poet, weaving words into patterns of beauty. She'd be a chemist in a white coat and discover a news behind

the news

WASHINGTON—The Supreme Court has recently ratified in practical and violent manner the Truman-Clark revival of the theory that the three branches of the government are separate, independent and sometimes noncooperative bodies. It has rebuked and repudiated the White House and Congress in the contest between Washington and the states for control of vast natural resources.

The decision was handed down in the famous and extremely important natural gas case. Climaxing years of legislative and political debate, the court held that the Federal Power Commission does enjoy regulatory authority over independent producers' gathering and marketing of this fuel, which has become a widely used source of heat and energy.

It virtually declared that this growing industry is a public utility, and subject to federal jurisdiction over production, transportation, distribution, rates, profits and investments. Despite its technical nature, it is one of the most far-reaching decisions in this field in many years, especially if it is applied in future litigation involving coal, water power and application of atomic energy to industrial use.

NO COMMENT—The anti-states rights attitude, particularly if it governs in the school segregation case now under consideration, can plunge the court—or its philosophy—into the 1954 and 1956 campaigns as it has not been so involved since F.D.R.'s court-packing proposal.

Although President Eisenhower has not commented on the ruling as Roosevelt and Truman were wont to do when judicial action irritated them, the natural gas decision hits straight at his campaign pledges and general viewpoint on federal versus state authority.

He has declared for all possible decentralization of power in favor of the states, local communities and private enterprise.

ACTIVITIES—In the face of the high tribunal's holding that the federal government had a "paramount interest" in the old tidelands off the Pacific and Gulf coasts, Eisenhower declared in favor of turning these properties over to the states. On May 22, only four months after inauguration, he signed a bill to that effect which Congress passed on his recommendation.

In accord with Ike's "time for a change" viewpoint, as well as his preference for state and private interests, Washington has been divesting itself of activities accumulated during the New Deal-Fair Deal era. The government has sold the Mississippi River barge line and placed synthetic rubber plants on the market. It has disposed of the lakes rum and sugar plant in the Virgin Islands, and wants offers for Bluebird's Castle, which lakes remade into a nonpaying hotel.

Secretary McKay has angered Morse-Humphrey "liberals" by preferring private to public construction of a hydroelectric system based on Hell's Canyon. He has announced that he will favor private or local development of similar projects. Ike himself described TVA as "creeping socialism."

DISAGREEMENT—But the natural gas reversal dramatizes the Supreme Court-White House disagreement most violently, and for the first time since inauguration. Favoring federal control, Truman reorganized the FPC so that the majority would assume legally questionable authority over gathering and marketing of the product.

Although a voluble Democrat, Sen. Robert S. Kerr, Oklahoma millionaire oil-gas magnate, sponsored a bill to block federal regulation. It was passed by Congress but vetoed by Truman. His commission, and apparently with Truman's acquiescence, failed to exercise any regulatory power. Whereas the veto pleased clamorous urban consumers, the commission's inaction satisfied wealthy oil-gas Democrats in the South, Southwest and Far West.

But they disappointed Truman by supporting and contributing heavily to Ike's candidacy. Eisenhower promptly named as FPC Chairman, Jerome K. Kuykendall who favored state and private interests in these disputes. Now, the preponderantly New Deal court has ruled against the FPC, an independent agency, against Congress and against the White House.

What a politico-economic-judicial mess!

Mac Noggle Gives Address At Monday Club Meeting

"Did You Know?" Is Title Of Talk

Mac Noggle of W. Union St. was guest speaker when Monday club met in Memorial hall with Mrs. Donald Mitchell in charge.

During a business session the group voted to make donations to Berger hospital gift fund, Girl Scouts, Girls' Industrial School Christmas fund and to the Christmas Seal campaign.

Mr. Noggle presented as his subject, "Did You Know?" He spoke of the many historical spots in Circleville and mentioned incidents of interest. Mr. Noggle cited the Hanby family as Circleville residents of many years, about whom very little is heard.

Mr. William Hanby, an illiterate from Pennsylvania was in servitude for twelve years. His first master was a Quaker and the second was a thief. He lived under intolerable conditions until he was ordered to swear falsely in defense of thievery. When he refused to do this, he was beaten so severely that he was ill for a long period. He escaped to Ohio on March 24, 1828.

He lived on the Sam Miller farm until he had earned sufficient funds to pay his debts. He married Anne Miller on Oct. 17, 1830, according to Mr. Noggle. Their home was a refuge for oppressed slaves and operated an Underground Railroad for thirty-three years.

He became a minister in the United Brethren Church, with twenty eight charges. He was appointed editor of the "Religious Telescope," a Circleville publication.

His first printing press was located in the Stocklen Building at Court and High Sts. Mr. Hanby became a successful editor, publisher and writer, with the assistance of Mrs. Hanby and their three children. Fifteen years later he was ordained as a Bishop of the United Brethren church.

The Rev. Mr. Hanby was assisted in the operation of the Underground Railroad by the Rev. I. L. Bookwalter, another minister of the United Brethren church.

Benjamin Hanby was one year old when his father came to Circleville from Westerville. Ben worked with his father at the printing press and went to school in Circleville. Later he went to Otterbein College in Westerville. On one trip to Westerville with his father, Ben met the slave, Joseph Selby. He was inspired by Selby to write "My Darling Nellie Gray".

Among other places of interest mentioned were: The Valley house on S. Court St., St. Joseph's church on E. Franklin St., four railroad depots located in Circleville, National House on Court St., between Franklin and Main Sts., and Zip Turney, the hitching post on S. Court St.

Mr. Noggle suggested that Circleville should mark these historical places, so that our valuable landmarks will not be lost.

Among persons of interest mentioned were Annie Oakley and Frank Butler. He stated that Annie Oakley gave her first demonstra-

New Very Proud Of Rio Grande

RIO GRANDE (A)—"We're right proud of our boys," Coach Newt Oliver says of his Rio Grande basketball team, recently returned from a four-game swing.

Oliver called the trip "successful all the way around" although Rio Grande lost its Madison Square Garden game.

The fiery little coach took the blame for the 83-76 Garden loss to Adelphi. He said:

"We made too many personal appearances on television. We ran from one studio to another like a bunch of clowns. The boys were dog-tired and it's all my fault."

Only today, the nation's sports writers and sportscasters voted Indiana the No. 1 team in the annual Associated Press preseason college basketball poll.

Maybe the score against Cincinnati was what the Hoosiers needed because they stepped on the court in Bloomington and ran up an 11-2 count in just three minutes and Coach Branch McCracken, who had the woes before the game, stopped worrying.

Six-foot-10 Don Schlundt hit for 16 points in the first quarter and after that State never was in the game. Schlundt wound up with 25 points, although, like most of the first team, he played only about a half.

Duquesne and Oklahoma A&M, rated Nos. 3 and 4 in the AP poll, both won. But the Aggies had their troubles with Texas and it wasn't until the final 20 seconds that Tom Fuller connected with a push shot to put his team in front 62-60. Duquesne coasted to an 83-58 victory over St. Francis College of Loretto, Pa.

For Him--

DOES THE MAN of your house enjoy watching weather conditions? Give him a thermometer. An Airguide barometer — thermometer would make an appreciated, useful gift. Accurately predicts trends in the weather hours in advance. Complete with accurate thermometer for just 7.50. Dad would love this from Harpster and Yost.

Success Of Browns Linked To Stress On Fundamentals

Editor's Note: Following is the second in a series of articles on the Cleveland Browns and what makes them click.

By MILES A. SMITH
CLEVELAND (AP) — A flabbergasted rookie once put his finger on one important reason for the success of the Cleveland Browns.

This young All America player had been in the training camp of another professional club before coming to the Browns' camp. He scarcely had mud on his cleats when he came up with this surprised observation:

"The other club assumed I knew all the fundamentals and went on from there. But the Browns don't take anything for granted. They teach you the way of doing things right from the start."

That is only the half of it. Even more than on most professional clubs, the Browns' staff works the year around.

Coach Paul Brown is at the Pro Bowl and the Senior Bowl in January, attends the winter meeting of the National League, takes a long Florida vacation, and then becomes General Manager Paul Brown. All spring there are hundreds of film minutes.

For each player, he grades every play of every game. For every play, that player gets a rating on such things as initial stance, charge, follow through, "got man" and finally "why."

By August, when the club opens its camp, everyone is ready for business. And the unofficial motto of this operation is a remark Brown has made many times: "I like boys who can learn."

This is where the notebooks begin. Cleveland is not the only club using notebooks, but it makes the most of them. Each player keeps notes through the training season, right in the classroom. During the season each player gets a "brochure" the week before each game. Every strength and weakness of the next enemy, and what to do about same, is in the brochure. And, as the while team is sequestered in a hotel the night before a game, the cramming still goes on.

Now we come to the game itself. Brown is a sideline dynamo. For a good many minutes of each game he also is a nervous, turf-kicking fustibutton. He calls virtually all signals, sending them in via guards Lin Houston and Chuck Noll. He often sends in a whole series of plays, complete with backfield spacing and blocking techniques.

He gets spotters' reports. He grows to himself about the officials' judgment. He quizzes players coming off the field. In general, he acts like a mobile electronic computer with seven eyes and seven ears.

Why is he General Manager Brown, Coach Brown and quarter back Brown, all in one? His answer is simple: "Some coaches have been tackled, or fullbacks, or ends, in their playing days. I've been a quarterback for as long as I can remember. It just comes that way."

What he doesn't tell you, in so many words, is that he welcomes responsibility and thrives on it. Are the plays that he calls the reason for so many victories? Brown never has claimed his plays were worth patenting. What, then, is his aim: Here is his answer: "The artistry of football is to get every player doing exactly the right thing and exact timing, as often as possible."

The way the Browns play the game, doing the right thing in every situation takes a lot of players and a lot of "special units."

Of course the National League limits each club to 33 players, so each club has some players who can double up for special duty. Brown says, "you make use of what you have."

For example, most clubs put certain players into your lineup for kick-offs (speed and good tackling) and certain ones for kick-off returns (speed and good blocking.)

The Browns have so many special units and some players have so many special duties, that a mere fan in the stands would need an index to keep track of them.

In Cleveland's first game, the decisive play came from the anti-field goal unit. The Steelers were after a short-yardage field goal that would have put them in the lead.

Ray Renfro, the fastest offensive halfback Cleveland has, lined up as defensive right end. Defensive halfback Warren Lahr became the left end. It was Renfro who blocked the kick—that was 'tillback Marion Motley who just clobbered the Steeler halfback—grabbed the ball on the second bounce and 79 yards later had a touchdown.

Brown said afterward when he saw Renfro had the ball he said to himself, "that's the right one." Just like it says on Page 156 of the notebook.

(Tomorrow: How does Paul Brown handle his players?)

Chandler Aids Players In Pension Tiff

NEW YORK (AP)—Former Baseball Commissioner Happy Chandler counseled major league player representatives on their pension rights and advised them not to go into the Atlanta meeting with Commissioner Frick.

This new development in the bitter pension dispute between the players and club owners came to light today only hours before the National and American League executives met to make important decisions regarding players' demands.

The 16 player representatives at their special meeting in Atlanta last Wednesday, telephoned Chandler at his Versailles, Ky., home for advice before deciding whether to meet with Frick.

Chandler, in an answer to a question, informed the players that all radio and television money of the World Series and All-Star Game belong to them and rightfully belong in the pension fund. He advised them not to meet with Frick without the presence of their lawyer, J. Norman Lewis. The players followed his advice, walking out on the commissioner when he refused to allow Lewis to attend the meeting.

National League player representative Ralph Kiner, who earlier had denied he was present at any meeting in which baseball's Executive Council had passed a resolution to consider ending the pension plan, amended the statement last night saying he was in agreement only to name a committee to see if it would be possible to turn over the pension plan to the players.

Sokolsky's These Days

What makes the picket line sacrosanct? Actually, on the waterfront in New York the picket line has been ignored by contending unions on the grounds that the strikers belong to an outlawed union which included men with criminal records. If a labor union can ignore a picket line for any reason, why should workers honor a picket line which is a violation of their contract?

This escape from responsibility destroys collective bargaining, the object of which is to reach orderly contractual relationships between employer and employee. Under our system of life, the contract ought to be inviolate during its term, as any other contract is.

A contract is a legal instrument expressing the actual or presumed intentions of the parties to it, and applying only to those concerned and not to the public generally. If one party to a contract meets the stipulated terms, the other party to it has neither a legal nor a moral ground for breaking it except in clear instances which might be termed "Acts of God," that is, natural disasters, wars, etc. Not even remotely may a picket line be regarded as an "Act of God," although it may produce a national disaster.

Surely, those who wish to revise the Taft-Hartley Law need to revise the relationship of the picket line to the labor contract. If it is lawful to violate a contract because of a picket line, of what avail is a contract?

into the Atlanta meeting with Commissioner Frick.

This new development in the bitter pension dispute between the players and club owners came to light today only hours before the National and American League executives met to make important decisions regarding players' demands.

The 16 player representatives at their special meeting in Atlanta last Wednesday, telephoned Chandler at his Versailles, Ky., home for advice before deciding whether to meet with Frick.

Chandler, in an answer to a question, informed the players that all radio and television money of the World Series and All-Star Game belong to them and rightfully belong in the pension fund. He advised them not to meet with Frick without the presence of their lawyer, J. Norman Lewis. The players followed his advice, walking out on the commissioner when he refused to allow Lewis to attend the meeting.

National League player representative Ralph Kiner, who earlier had denied he was present at any meeting in which baseball's Executive Council had passed a resolution to consider ending the pension plan, amended the statement last night saying he was in agreement only to name a committee to see if it would be possible to turn over the pension plan to the players.

New Regulations For Food-Serving Places Topic At Parley

Blaney Named As Inspector In City, County

Licenses Covering Local Restaurants Scheduled Soon

Circleville and Pickaway County are represented at an official two-day study of Ohio's new law requiring all food-serving establishments to be licensed by Jan. 1st.

Dr. A. D. Blackburn, Pickaway County health commissioner, said City Sanitarian R. T. Blaney is attending a meeting of state and local officials Monday and Tuesday in Jackson.

Primary purpose of the session, presided over by State Sanitarian Max Bunce, is to accurately appraise all sections of the law and interpret its intent correctly.

Generally, the new health code makes city and county health departments directly responsible for restaurant inspection and licensing. In the past, these duties were charged to the office of State Fire Marshal.

AT THE SAME TIME, Dr. Blackburn disclosed that Blaney has been selected as chief inspector for both the city of Circleville and Pickaway County. However, restaurant operators within the city limits must obtain their new licenses through the city health department in city hall, and those located in county areas must obtain them from the county health department in the courthouse.

Before leaving for the conference at Jackson, which is headquarters for the southeast sanitation district stretching south from Columbus to the Ohio river and east to the river, Blaney said he expects city and county restaurant licenses to be issued beginning Tuesday, Dec. 15th.

"The fee charged for a restaurant license," Dr. Blackburn explained, "is based on the actual cost of inspection and administration. This fee probably will be set at $25 for each license. Churches, schools, hospitals, and government institutions pay a flat rate of $1."

Dr. Blackburn said food service establishments will be required to meet statewide regulations adopted by the Ohio Public Health Council. A series of meetings will be arranged by the health department to explain these regulations to operators.

"Food service operators will be given a reasonable length of time

It's Wheeling's way of doing a good turn for the day.

Idaho 'Serpent' To Get A Name

MCCALL, Idaho (AP)—After 15 years of nameless—and disputed—existence, Payette Lake's "sea serpent" is going to get a name.

A. Boon McCallum decided it was time the serpent was called something besides "the thing" or "the monster." So he's started a contest in his newspaper, the Payette Lakes Star.

The "serpent" has been reported seen at various times, but no one has every photographed it and it's never rocked a boat. Estimates of its length vary from 15 to 65 feet, and the skeptics say it's nothing but a big sturgeon.

Each Christmas finds her a little taller

It was a tiny upstart of a nation... small in numbers... without standing in the councils of the great. The Christmas night Washington crossed the Delaware less than three million people, scattered in settlements along the Eastern Seaboard, made up America. But they were a people dedicated—united in the cause of personal liberty. Not just in size has our nation grown. Year by year its influence for good has grown and become mighty. It rides the troubled winds of the world to keep hope alive in the hearts of men. This Christmas let us give thanks for this peaceful, freedom-loving land of ours... and rededicate ourselves to one of its noblest principles, "Peace on earth; good will toward men."

New Regulations For Food-Serving Places Topic At Parley

Blaney Named As Inspector In City, County

Licenses Covering Local Restaurants Scheduled Soon

Circleville and Pickaway County are represented at an official two-day study of Ohio's new law requiring all food-serving establishments to be licensed by Jan. 1st.

Dr. A. D. Blackburn, Pickaway County health commissioner, said City Sanitarian R. T. Blaney is attending a meeting of state and local officials Monday and Tuesday in Jackson.

Primary purpose of the session, presided over by State Sanitarian Max Bunce, is to accurately appraise all sections of the law and interpret its intent correctly.

Generally, the new health code makes city and county health departments directly responsible for restaurant inspection and licensing. In the past, these duties were charged to the office of State Fire Marshal.

AT THE SAME TIME, Dr. Blackburn disclosed that Blaney has been selected as chief inspector for both the city of Circleville and Pickaway County. However, restaurant operators within the city limits must obtain their new licenses through the city health department in city hall, and those located in county areas must obtain them from the county health department in the courthouse.

Before leaving for the conference at Jackson, which is headquarters for the southeast sanitation district stretching south from Columbus to the Ohio river and east to the river, Blaney said he expects city and county restaurant licenses to be issued beginning Tuesday, Dec. 15th.

"The fee charged for a restaurant license," Dr. Blackburn explained, "is based on the actual cost of inspection and administration. This fee probably will be set at $25 for each license. Churches, schools, hospitals, and government institutions pay a flat rate of $1."

Dr. Blackburn said food service establishments will be required to meet statewide regulations adopted by the Ohio Public Health Council. A series of meetings will be arranged by the health department to explain these regulations to operators.

"Food service operators will be given a reasonable length of time

Idaho 'Serpent' To Get A Name

MCCALL, Idaho (AP)—After 15 years of nameless—and disputed—existence, Payette Lake's "sea serpent" is going to get a name.

The "serpent" has been reported seen at various times, but no one has every photographed it and it's never rocked a boat. Estimates of its length vary from 15 to 65 feet, and the skeptics say it's nothing but a big sturgeon.

He said he had come to Baltimore with a friend to visit his aunt, had lost both and somehow entered Cox's house, walked into the closet and fell asleep under a pile of clothes.
